

Who will I meet when I die?

A workshop about connecting to our loved ones who have died by Australian author Kelly Connor

This talk and workshop explains how to recognize contact from the dead and why it happens. Rudolf Steiner's indications about our after-life journey provide firm ground from which we can build bridges between the living and the dead. Kelly Connor's life experience and dedicated research shows that we can follow and chart the after-life journey of those that have died because there is an inherent wisdom and elegance in the mystery of death that can be unraveled through love.

Kelly Connor travels internationally giving talks and workshops on the relationship between the living and the dead. She was born in the UK in 1954 and immigrated to Australia at eleven with her family. Following the experience described in her book, To Cause a Death, Kelly facilitates workshops all over the world.

Where: Santa Cruz, Ca

Workshop on November 11, 2009

To register email Daniel Bittleston danielbittleston@hotmail.com or call (831) 212-1947

Where: Rudolf Steiner College, Fair Oaks, Ca

Public Talk: Friday November 13, 2009 7:30pm ($15/$10 door)

Workshop: Saturday November 14 10am - 5pm & Sunday Nov 15 9am - 1pm

Cost: $125 / $95 for the workshop and talk

Registration: Ph: (916)-486-6127 E: marliesschade@gmail.com

Where: Santa Barbara, Ca

Friday, November 20, 2009 7:00pm A public lecture at Unity Church, 227 E. Arrellaga St., Santa Barbara, CA

Saturday, November 21, 2009 10am - 5pm Workshop (call for location)

Cost: $80 for the workshop & lecture $10 for lecture

Registration for the workshop: Ph: (805)451-2359

For more details about Kelly see: www.kellyconnor.com/kamaloca

Artwork: The Struggle by Karen L. Brown